

The EHS PTSA and The Princeton Review are teaming up to bring you FearFree SAT and ACT testing right here at EHS. These full-length practice tests offer students the opportunity to practice test taking strategies and determine baseline scores prior to taking the official SAT and ACT college entrance exams. Both the SAT and ACT tests are widely used by U.S. colleges to determine admissions and award scholarships. Because the SAT and the ACT test different subjects and score differently, students may perform better on one than on the other. Thus we recommend students take both tests to see which one is better for them. Confidential test results are given to students at a special Scores Back Session.

Go to www.ehsptsa.org under the Programs section to register online or download the printable registration form. Registration fees are non-refundable. Parents who volunteer to act as test monitors and are selected to do so are eligible to receive an additional test at no charge. The test is open to any high school student; you don't have to attend EHS.

* SCORE BACK SESSIONS: These sessions allow students to receive their confidential scores and learn what they can do to improve their performance on their actual SAT and/or ACT tests.

An expert from The Princeton Review is there to go over the tests and be available to answer questions about how to help your student inspire, exceed and achieve their academic goals.
